

It's Round Oak Time

There's no stove like the "Round Oak." That has been an accepted fact for so long it has become a maxim. There are countless reasons why. A few we give here:

What the Round Oak Does

- It burns all the gases and black smoke.
- It cokes the coal, making an even, steady fire.
- It makes a hotter fire from same fuel.
- It makes a cleaner fire.
- It saves fuel.
- It keeps your home comfortable all winter long with less trouble than the ordinary stove gives in a week.

We sell the "Round Oak"

Katherine Armstrong.

After a lingering illness, Mrs. Katharine Armstrong passed away at her home near Jasper, Wednesday morning Nov 3 at seven o'clock. Her maiden name was Katharine Kibler, she was born in Fulton, Mo. July 31, 1830, was married to Irwin Hookaday Armstrong, October 30, 1853, emigrating the same year with her husband to southern Texas, where they lived until in the fall of 1869 they returned to Missouri locating one mile north of the present town of Jasper. Two years later they bought the tract of land then in the midst of a pathless prairie and unbewn forest, which became the home that sheltered them until death, located in south Barton county three and one half miles east of their first location. Mrs. Armstrong was the mother of six children, three sons and three daughters, five of whom were present at her bedside in the dying hour, one little daughter having died in infancy. She was a beautiful character, bearing with patience, and fortitude the intense suffering with which she was afflicted for months. Only a few hours before her death, she sang "Rejoice and be glad, the Redeemer has come." Her last words were "I am coming, I am coming, God, to see my little baby." She had many friends to welcome her home, but when God said "Come" it seemed that her mind reverted from her children here to the little one who forty-one years ago was laid to rest beneath a drooping live oak tree, in a little cemetery of the sunny southland. She was given all that loving friends and medical aid could do, until the last, and after a funeral service at her home conducted by Rev. Deakins of the Baptist church of Jasper which was both appropriate and impressive, she was laid to rest, Thursday afternoon, Nov. 4, in the Mitchell cemetery, to await the morning of the Resurrection. Her husband died March 6, 1902.

Alphas' Meeting.

At their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Good last Friday afternoon, the Alphas decided that, "In the world lie many depths unsounded," though many a goal has been reached by men who have turned the searchlight of their energies upon some fixed theme.

At this meeting ten members responded to roll-call by giving some achievement.

The absence of several members was due to the inclemency of the weather. However, the Good domicile, decorated with chrysanthemums, was full of warmth and sunshine and the smiling countenances of the Alphas were not in keeping with the uninviting elements without.

The following papers were read: Edison's Inventions, Mrs. McComb; Telegraphy, Mrs. Putnam; Development of the Railroads, Miss Fox; A poem on, Labor Saving Agricultural Implements, Mrs. Fairfield.

The programme, which proved an interesting one, showing much research and study, was closed with "current events."

It being the seventh wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Good, the hostess surprised the club by breaking over the usual custom of non-luncheon and with the aid of her little daughter, Ruth, served delicious refreshments. After wishing Mrs. Good many more happy wedding anniversaries the club adjourned to meet November 19th. at the home of Mrs. Shoemaker, when a Thanksgiving musical program will be rendered.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to express to the many friends who so nobly gave us assistance in our late bereavement our heartfelt thanks and deepest gratitude. Children of Mrs. Katharine Armstrong.
